AMSTERDAM, VA., June 30.—Rev. R. R. Houston and his pretty and popular daughter, Miss Jessie, were both bitten by a rabid dog a few days since. The sinmal was a great pet and belonged to the minister's family. Last week it suddenly disappeared from home and was found on the farm of Mr. Oille Brugh, a prominent citizen of Boteourt county, who resides in the Mount Union neighborhood, not far from Mr. Houston.

Miss Jessie volunteered to accompany her father when he drove over to Mr. Brugh's for their dog, but instead of the creature rationally following its owners it snapped savagely at both, finally inflicting several wounds, which, it is hoped, will not become serious. Vill Invite Public Scrutiny.

Closest scrutiny by the government and the public will be invited in all that is done, and instead of becoming the target of the country's critics it is declared that what the company shall accomplish eventually will be regarded as marking an important epoch in the betterment of the country's economic life.

In a word, the American Farm Products Company purposes to take charge of the 2500,0000 pounds of butter produced each year in the United States, reduce it to butter oil, extract the impurities, mix it again with fresh milk and transform it into high grade, pure butter. While the butter refining has been going on in sthe United States for many years, to a greater extent than is generally supposed, it is contended that many of the processes employed were imperiect, and that now with the best patents in their control and the abandonment of inferior methods, it will be possible to supply the consumers of this country uniformly with good butter instead of the inferior quality produced from the farms and creameries in the past.

The dairy crop of the United States

The dairy crop of the United States ast year amounted to $68,00,00. and a large part of this was butter. Of all the butter consumed in and exported from the United States, two-thirds is made on farms, and it is the contention of the new company that most of the farm-butter is improperly made.

COVINGTON, VA., June 30.—The first session of the Virginia State Normal Institute to be held in Covington began Thursday, June 28th, under the able leadership of Principal N. P. Painter, of Roanoke, and Principal J. G. Jeter, of Covington. The first day was spent in arranging the schedule, and lectures began regularly on Friday.

The enrollment is encouraging but many more are expected before next week. The interest is great, and all the teachers are entering into the work with enthusiasm. This Summer Normal is blessed above most of the others by its situation in a mountainous region, where beautiful scenery and healthful olimate are alike conductive to work.

The citizens of Covington have shown great generosity and hospitality in their reception of the visitors. Nor is anything left to be lacking on the intellectual side, as the corps of instructors is composed of capable and enthusiastic teachers, who have been eminently successful in their calling.

A series of instructive and entertaining lectures is planned for the month from such men as Dr. Charles W. Kept, of the University; Rev. F. V. N. Painter, D. D. of Roanoke, and Superintendent J. D. Eggleston, Jr., of Richmond.

Superstitions of Sailors,

Superstitions of Sailors.

All sailors are superstitious, and the legends of the sea are legion, ranging from phantom ships to spectral lights suddenly gleaming from yardarms and mastheads. That many of these legends are very ancient may be proved by the fact that sea harpies are described by Homer and Hestod, while, according to Virgil, they plundered Aenens during his voyage to Italy. The beautiful sirens, too, are of classic origin.

Weird, indeed, are the tales of haunting spectres, fit to send one's nerves a-shivering after a hearty supper, well suited for Christmas time ghost stories. There are the four Goblins of Dunter's Ness, not ghosts, but evil water spirits, who appear twice a year only in midwinter, but bring bad luck in a very short time to the ship from which they are sighted.

We must mention Adsmaster, the dreaded Ohost of the Cape, that used to be seen in a halo of cloud and mist over Good Hope, and also the silent man of Wexford Harbor, the wandering soul of the Dirkch skipper who lost his smack on his way to Jublin some three centuries ago.

Ghostly appartitions are not, however,

Ghostly apparitions are not, however, the only ones to be feared at sea. In the case of St. Elmo's fire these apparitions take the shape of spectral lights suddenly gleaming from yardarms or mastheads. It was known by ancient navigators as Castor and Pollux—the best omen if seen double, but a single danger if seen single.

Jack has a score of well-known superstitions, may, of which are of very iong descent, such as the presence of figure-heads, the blessing of ships and the "crossing of the line." And it will be remembered that the Prince and Princess of Wales both paid tribute to old while on their journey to Australe I light Illustrated Magazin.
